VOLUME THREE

Tacoma, WA

Just as the flowers of summer,
And birds flying to and fro,
And each brilliant dye of the sunset sky
May be found in the streamlet below,

So we have tried in this Annual
To reflect all the days that are past,
To bring back to you the friends that are true
And the joys that will always last.

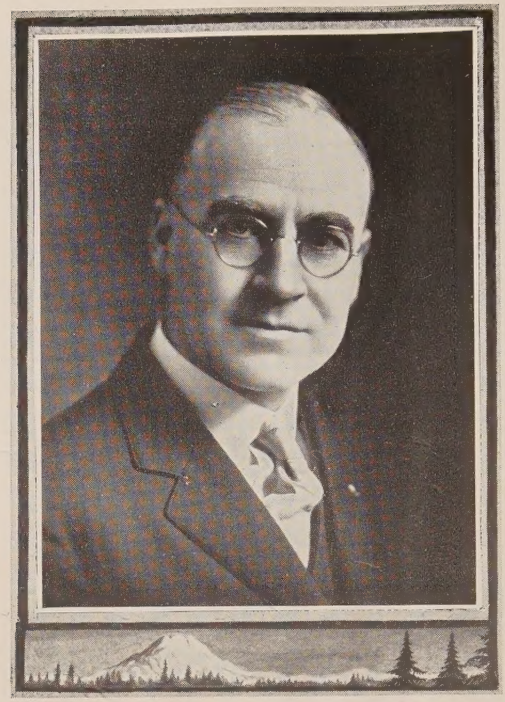
REVERENCE
Enter Ye



SENIORS of '25, I congratulate you on your commencement—not on your finish! Your education is well begun; but not done. You must retain the will to learn.

Every one of you who has sufficient determination, good health and no dependents can and should go to college. "A college is a grindstone." If your mind will take an edge, sharpen it. College will broaden your horizon and enlarge your conception of the meaning and purpose of life. It will give you the keys to the treasuries of history, literature, philosophy, science and art. It will give you a better and truer understanding of human nature and a more sympathetic appreciation of your friends and of all mankind. It will afford you the opportunity of forming intimate and abiding friendships with many of the choicest spirits among your contemporaries, young men and young women, destined to fill positions of great honor and usefulness. What a pleasure it will be some day to say of them, "Yes, I know Bill or Mary very well, indeed. We were college chums at dear old ——."

To get the most out of college and out of life, you must, of course, put your best into them. But while you are doing this, always remember the inscription on the cornerstone of Lincoln High: "Wisdom is the principal thing, therefore get wisdom; yea, with all thy getting, get understanding."

R. E. COOK,
Principal.

To

Miss Lillian E. Anderson

in appreciation of her quiet, cheerful, and unselfish service as librarian
to Lincoln High School, we,
the Senior Class of 1925,
dedicate this Volume.

Miss Lillian E. Anderson

The Staff

In a quiet (?) corner of Lincoln
The typewriter clicks all day,
There where the students are thinking
With never a moment of play.

You may hear them discussing all subjects—
Athletics, dramatics and art;
Literature, clubs and alumni;
Yes, each one must have a part.

For they are dignified (?) seniors,
And will leave dear old Lincoln soon;
So they're making a way to remember
The joys that will end in June.

And if ever when school is in session,
You stroll down the topmost floor,
You'll see those who work their hardest
And then work a little bit more.

But if you ever disturb them,
Ere you know what you are about,
They will show you the sign on the blackboard
Of "Annual Office, keep out!"

Class Poem

Oh, our Twenty-five was a gallant ship,
And was manned by a gallant crew,
When she started off on her maiden trip
On a sea that was strange and new!

For she sought the gems that were known of old—
All under a cloudless sky,
And many a chest of silver and gold
In the halls of our Lincoln High.

'Twas a noble sight on the open sea,
When she proudly unfurled each sail,
And many a heart that was brave and free,
Rejoiced as she breasted the gale.

Among smiling isles she has made her way
Like a ship on the Spanish Main,
And 'twere long to tell of the wealth that lay
In her course like a field of grain.

And four long years have now come and gone,
And lo! o'er the glimmering foam,
That same Twenty-five at the new day's dawn
Comes abearing the treasure home.

And as she returns amid laughter and mirth,
With her banner of roses unfurled,
We are wondering what is to be its worth
In the market they call "The World."

And the summer sun in the month of June
Looks down as we say "good-bye."
For the crew must part, yes, and all too soon,
Leave the Haven of Lincoln High.

ELMA SINES, '25.

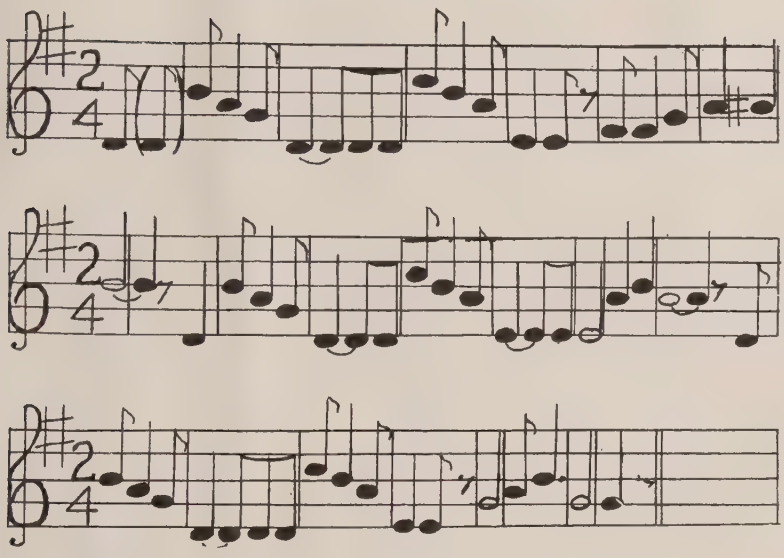
Senior Memories

Senior Class Song



Oh! Classmates so true,
Graduation is nigh,
And we must say farewell
To dear Lincoln High.
We love you our school,
And we leave with regret,
But through all our life
We will never forget
Oh! Lincoln High.

We'll remember our work,
We'll remember our fun,
But our school days are o'er
And life has begun.
So here's to your mem'ry,
So loyal and true
Oh! Dear Lincoln High,
And a farewell to you
Oh! Lincoln High.

—By E. S. '25.

Will of the Senior Class of '25

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That we, the Senior Class of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-five of Lincoln High School, County of Pierce, State of Washington, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, and not acting under duress, menace, fraud, or undue influence of any nature whatsoever, do make and publish, ordain and declare this, our last will and testament, in manner following, to-wit:

1. To the student body we leave:

   1 football trophy;

   1 basketball championship;

   1 soccer trophy;

   1 wrestling championship;

   1 debate trophy,
   and maybe many others. Keep and cherish them forever.

2. To Mr. Cook: We leave the memories of his first graduating class at Lincoln. May he have others as great. (?)

3. To the Juniors: You can pretend to own the school. We did.

4. To the Sophs: All old gum found under the desks rightfully belongs to you. Stick to it.

5. To the Frosh: A St. Patrick's Day every week so that your color will look natural.

6. To Mr. King: We leave one old rowboat so that he can get around the field faster. May he have better weather for his games next year.

7. To Mr. Jensen: We leave a few more dumbbells around the gym. Try ice-cream with your lutefisk, Pete; it's good.

8. To Mr. Rogers: We leave the position of school orator. No, you can't drink out of the debate trophy, Mr. Rogers; it will tarnish.

9. To Mrs. Gaul: We leave sufficient funds to put a new floor in 223. The boards are too squeaky.

10. To Mr. Schartow: We leave a good wish for that greenhouse; Mr. Schartow, you may get it yet.

11. To Mr. Orr: We leave a season ticket to all games. Don't miss any of them.

12. To Mrs. Lamb: We leave a mob of food-craving maniacs with an everlasting, gnawing hunger.

13. To Miss Anderson: We leave a library full of dumb students. Not the ordinary dumb ones, but some unable to speak or make any noise.

14. To "Abe" Lincoln: We leave a pencil and notebook to keep score for the victorious Lincoln teams.

15. To the News Office: We leave two or three wrecked typewriters, six more wastebaskets (use them), and a more ambitious staff.

16. To every student afflicted with "watch-the-clock-itis": We leave a pair of blinders.

17. To the "vandals": We leave a large desk on the second floor that they may all carve their names thereon.

18. To the next editor—HOPES and AMBITION!

We hereunto subscribe our name this 13th day of April, A. D. 1925.

Memories

When we leave our dear old Lincoln
To return to it no more,
Then the mem'ries of days spent there
Will come to us o'er and o'er.

When winter brings the rain and snow,
We'll sit by the fireside and see
In the flickering flames of the blazing log,
The place where we used to be.

First our beautiful Auditorium
Thronged with students who came to learn
Of the things they must know in this old world,
And the joys for which they yearn.

Then come tho'ts of the hallways
Where we wandered up and down,
Down the long hall on second floor
To the third and then around.

All our classrooms thru the day
Were filled to overflowing,
Chemistry, History and Languages,
Typing, Shorthand and Sewing.

The gymnasiums were popular too,
With girls as well as boys;
Where, after school, with their best friends,
They shared so many joys.

The lunchroom, too, we'll plainly see
With hungry students standing
In the endless line before the counter;
It's the "eats" that they're demanding.

As the flames flash forth a stronger glow,
In the instant, we see faces
Of those dear teachers whom we loved
And our friends so kind and gracious.

Last but not least, Old Lincoln High
Shines wonderfully in the flame!
A brighter light—then all is gone,
And we're back by our fireside again.

Junior Class

IN SEPTEMBER, 1922, the class of '26 made its initial appearance at Lincoln. Although they were an unorganized group for the first two years, they boasted of a fine representation in every scholastic and athletic line. Jimmie Mosolf, Clarence Rolfson, Richard Johnson, Everett Metzger, and Lloyd Bjelland represented the Juniors on the victorious first team in 1924. The Junior girls claimed the inter-class basketball title in the girls' gymnasium this year. In debate the class of '26 has also been prominent.

A Junior, Mary Frances LePenske, is president of Takolah this year. In the Knights of Lincoln, the Junior class is well-represented.

In the fall of 1924 the class of '26 entered no longer as under-classmen but as high and mighty Juniors. The first meeting of the class was called for the purpose of nominating the officers to take charge of class affairs. They were to hold office for two semesters. They immediately showed their wisdom in electing the following: Jimmie Mosolf, president; Willard Parker, vice-president; Sarah Cook, secretary; Lloyd Bjelland, treasurer; Everett Metzger, sergeant-at-arms. For their representatives for the Associated Student Body, Rhoda Cheney and Clarence Rolfson were elected. With Miss Jessie Barlow as advisor, the class worked together for the best interests of the school.

Under the able management of Miss Barlow, the Junior Prom, which received the commendation of all who attended, was given in December. Preceding the dance, an interesting program was given in the auditorium.

Every indication points to the fact that they will be a successful Senior class for next year.

Sophomore Class

WATCH the Class of '27, ye Dignified Seniors, Sophisticated Juniors, and Lowly Freshmen. As an active group they cannot be excelled. The Sophomore class is represented in every Lincoln activity, large or small.

The Sophomore boys have representatives on almost every athletic team. A number have received their "L's" for participation in football and basketball. The soccer team was composed principally of second-year men. Four members of the wrestling squad were Sophomores. They also have taken part in other sports. This speaks well for Lincoln's future athletic teams.

The girls' athletics are not to be forgotten. So far there has been only one activity in which teams have been selected —basketball. Although the Sophomore team did not score high in points, it was one of the strongest. The girls are now turning out enthusiastically for baseball, cricket, and swimming.

A Sophomore debating club was organized, and a keen interest was shown by the students. The teams held their own in the debates with Stadium. One victory and one defeat were registered.

The names of Sophomores figure prominently in the membership of the band, orchestra, Knights of Lincoln, Takolah Club, Girl Scouts, and every organization active in school life.

In the Honor Society, which was recently organized in Lincoln High School, one may find a Sophomore president. It is noteworthy, too, out of the forty-four members, twenty are of the class of '27.

The fact that the two highest places on Lincoln's Honor Roll are held by Sophomore girls, proves that this class is making a name for itself scholastically as well as athletically.

Here you have the Sophomore history for the 1924-25 term. The Sophomores are well on their way to success, and at the rate they have been going they will reach the goal with flying colors. Remember our yell,

Freshman Class

In nineteen hundred and twenty-four
We Freshmen entered Lincoln's door;
We're almost exactly a thousand strong,
And we've done a lot, though not here long.
We've proved to you that we're alive
By conquering Stadium's Freshman five,
And beating their First Year soccer team.
So, Folks, we've got the real Lincoln steam,
And we can be trusted in future days
To fight for Lincoln when Stadium plays.

THE Freshman football game with Stadium was cancelled on account of the October vacation, but some of our fellows starred on the Midget football team and later on the Midget basketball team.

Our girls have done well, too, in athletics, defeating both Sophomore and Senior first teams in basketball and the Sophomore second team.

The Freshmen have shown good school spirit by turning out for the different clubs. There are many Freshman members of all the clubs, and one of them, Jane Boux, is vice-president of the French Club, an honor not often given to an underclassman. In the Radio Club several Freshmen are engaged in advanced code practice. The Freshman Triangle of the Takolah Club gave a mixer for new girls in February. A number of our Freshman musicians are members of the Senior Band and Senior Orchestra. One of our boys, Marino Sensi, has been offered an opportunity to have training for grand opera. Kenneth Burris sang at the Band Jubilee, and Loren Hollenbeck had a solo part in "The China Shop."

In scholarship the class of 1928 has made a good record. Ninety-two and one-fourth is the high average of the Freshmen on the Honor Roll. Madeline Hutson and Elsie Korpela, with averages of ninety-four and one-fourth, had two of the eight highest averages in school. Many Freshmen hope to be members of the Honor Society next year.

Heaven as I Saw It

I REMEMBERED that I had died. Vividly, I remembered my funeral and my long sojourn in the cold earth. Now I was standing in a subterranean passage with blackness all around me. I took a step forward and my feet became entangled in some unseen and unknown object. I hastily retreated to avoid it and found myself against a clammy wall. Where was I? I concluded I had not gone to Heaven. Then it must be the other place!

Slowly the darkness lifted as I saw someone approaching. To my horror I recognized a certain robust teacher who had vainly tried to expound the glories of our ancestors to my youthful brain. He came close to me and peered with fiendish glee at me. Just such a look had he often given me, before asking me a particularly hard question.

Indeed, I concluded, my fears and apprehensions were not false. Grinning, he beckoned me. I could not choose but follow. As we journeyed onward, the way became broader and the light clearer. For the first time I noticed what we were walking on. Oh, woeful sight! All the path was lined and paved with—"flunk cards!" Yes, too true, flanking me on either side, they leered and jeered at me like so many goblins. Were these the good intentions with which I had always been told these regions were paved?

The roadway broadened into a room. All around me I saw students, many of whom I had known when I was living. I watched them for a while. At periodical intervals they would get up and dash madly out of the exit. Then they would return and resume their seats and in a few seconds would again make their hasty exit. Puzzled, I stood with mouth agape, as I perceived the perspiration trickling down their faces and noticed their hurried breathing.

Just as I was about to question my guide as to the meaning of it all, he anticipated my answer and with a wicked chuckle said:

"These are the students who used to lag behind when we had fire drills."

Poor things! Here they were doomed to practice fire-drill every few minutes of their eternal existence. No peace did they get. Poor souls!

But I was hurried into another chamber. Here I was told were those who had failed during their school lives. They were writing furiously, and as soon as they had finished one paper they had to begin another.

Then I was ushered into what looked to me to be a large stadium thronged with students. Many of these I knew, and many others whom I did not know were wearing the Black and Gold. On the other side the predominating colors were Blue and Gold. Then I glanced down at the field. A football game was in progress. Yes, there was the whole "Wonder Team of 1922." But, Oh, horrors! even as I looked our opponents started down the field toward our goal! No one could stop them now! Sick at heart, I turned away. I could no longer bear to look. Vaguely I waited to hear the responding cheers from the other side, but I heard no sound. Hopefully I looked to see if we had stopped their advance. But, no; they were still going strongly toward our goal-line. Wonderingly I walked away, going in the direction of the side of the Stadium, where our opponents were seated. When I arrived there I gave one last look back, and to my joy saw that it was our team that was going toward their goal-posts! Then I understood! We thought that they were advancing toward our goal, and they thought that we were going toward theirs. It was indeed Hades!

Sick at heart, I turned away to follow the keeper of the Flaming Gate. As we passed onward I came to a sign that said, "Teachers Only." So the students weren't the only ones who suffered! The first one we came across was a friend of mine who had taught me the solemn axioms of old Euclid. In front of her was a large pile of papers, but although she corrected them feverishly, the pile grew larger instead of smaller. Poor Mortal! What had she ever done to deserve this?

In still another apartment were teachers, doing various things supervised by the students. My companion was bitterly shedding tears at such a woeful sight, though I was somewhat amused by it all. Gymnasium teachers were doing all kinds of ear-splitting and hair-raising stunts, such as walking over a flash of lightning strung across a yawning chasm. The manual training teachers were designing millinery, and the sewing teachers were constructing furniture and machinery of all kinds. In fact, every teacher was doing just the opposite of what he or she had done in life.

Just as I was beginning to enjoy myself, my companion, with streaming eyes and gnashing teeth, led me forcibly away.

"You may laugh," he told me, "but wait till you hear what I have to say."

With fear and trembling I listened as he told me that he had detained me in that place, whereas, I should have gone straightway to Heaven. In vain I pleaded with him; he would not give me a "detained slip."

Gradually I felt myself being lifted, soaring upward through the clouds. I felt a tingling in my shoulders and perceived two long white wings growing from them.

At last, in the distance, I saw a vague, shadowy outline. As it became clearer I thought I could discern a clock-tower, a bronze statue and a great snow-capped peak, over which was written in words of fire—"MT. TACOMA." Yes, indeed, there was dear old Lincoln High, nestling in a bank of clouds. This then was Heaven and my destination. As I drew near, the door opened and I could plainly see a gate-keeper waiting to admit me. Despite his venerable beard and white hair I recognized in him our worthy Principal.

"Where have you been since you died?" he thundered. "Have you brought your slip with you?"

Vainly I tried to explain the cause of my tardiness and to establish my innocence, but he would have none of it.

"Thirty minutes after Eternity in the Tardy Room for you," he said.

Then he let me pass. It was indeed the same dear old Lincoln. There were all our athletic heroes, each with his wings and a halo; each surrounded by a crowd of admiring onlookers, mostly girls. Some of them had such an angelic appearance it was with great difficulty that I recognized them. Then all the belles of the school were plying their arts on the groups of gloco-ed cherubs.

In the center of the second-floor hall were seated a number of musicians. Prominent among these I recognized the famous "Harp Huggers' Quartet." Even as I looked they began to play; harps were plucked; lyres, lutes and all manner of instruments including the mouth organs were put into use. The tune they played was one entitled "Whattle You Doodly, Doo, Doo, When the Pearly Gates Are Shut?"

Then a mighty noise shook the building, a noise as of thunder, which grew louder and then subsided into a sweet harmony of sounds. I looked around and perceived that the bystanders were all dancing what was called, I soon learned, "The Wing Flop."

Surely, thought I, some conscientious teacher would come along and stop them. But, no; there were no teachers there. That was the Heaven of it!

JOAN COBBETT, 1925.

A Jaunt to Mount Tacoma

AT five o'clock on the morning of a perfect day, the boys assembled at the Lincoln statue for the Mountain trip. The spiked boots and the riding breeches gave notice to all the world that mountaineers would soon be conquering the snowy heights whose faint outline could be seen in the coming dawn.

The party traveled to the park entrance in something like three hours. The roads were excellent, and the occasional views of the mountain as the autos wound upward were visions of noble grandeur. The sun as it rose from behind a snowy slope in a molten mass of flame was reflected forth to us by pinnacles and peaks till we were fairly dazzled.

At the entrance, snow appeared on the ground and added an effective touch to the forest. We traveled up to Longmire beside a rushing glacial stream hurtling through banks of virgin snow. Once in a while, seemingly vertical hills with snow-capped tops would appear through some opening; and then again, for a background, Mount Tacoma would rear its serene height toward the sky.

Finally we reached Longmire where we left our cars and commenced the hike. The distance to Paradise Valley, our objective, was some six miles, or, as several of the boys feelingly put it, "four miles on the level and two miles up." The trail led up past the half-mile toboggan slide; then through a thick forest with streamers of moss hanging from the boughs; skirted the base of old Eagle Peak, whose scarred precipitous sides and mass of rock debris at the foot gave evidence of the age-old struggle of the elements; and finally brought us out over the glacial stream as it roared in its swift descent toward the plain. From the bridge, the mountain presented a sublime spectacle. From a group of foothills it rose in rugged strength, with sharply defined ridges and great expanses of snow. It seemed so near as almost to overhang the observer, and certainly the solidity and silent force exerted a fascinating influence. With difficulty we broke away from the visual feast to continue our ascent.

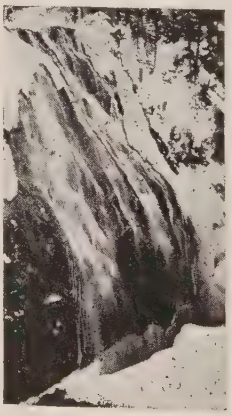
Now the snow became deeper, and the trail commenced its upward climb. What a bewildering panorama of snow scenes! What wild beauty in woods and slopes! One must see it to fully appreciate it. And then the water falls, especially Narada, where the water drops sheer between cleft walls of snow, upon massive boulders of granite worn smooth by centuries of falling water. It is indeed a thrilling sight and one to be kept in the memory.

From Narada, the trail led tortuously upward for one and six-tenths miles to Paradise. It gave one a curious satisfaction to walk over the ridgepoles of tents, to step over telephone wires and to be able to grasp a tree some twenty feet above the ground. But even more impressive was the opening vista of peaks and distant slopes, a fitting frame for the mountain we were approaching.



In the last half hour of ascent we stopped often in the soft knee-deep surface snow to admire the gorgeous simplicity of the view. Ranges far in the distance rose up with exquisite shading in that rarefied mountain air. Forests added lines that blended with the horizon. Single peaks arose in austere power. All the perfection of nature was ours to admire and remember.

At Paradise Valley, the landscape undulated in great white sweeps alternating with rounded rises toward the mountain. The deep snow gave a symmetrical outline to the ground and contrasted effectively with the bare crags and wind-swept ridges higher up. Here the trees were thinning out. Tobogganing and skeeing offered thrills and excitement enough for the most hardy member of the group. Many times at some drop in the surface did the toboggan head dip into the snow or the skees became crossed, causing bewildering convolutions on the part of the rider.

Altogether too soon the time for return approached. As we went down the slope, the distant ranges slowly faded; then the foothill ridges drew abreast and finally towered over us. We came into the deeper forest, going down, down; sliding, falling, ever going down. At times we turned and gazed through some gap at the Mountain at whose foot we had stood. Silent, impassive it seemed, as though challenging us who had stood upon the threshold of its mysteries, to further explorations.

But still Mount Tacoma rears its peak into the sky where we took our reluctant leave. So it has stood for thousands of years, and so it will stand for thousands more; a massive monument to the glory and grandeur of nature.

HAROLD NUTLEY.

The Strange Kidnapper

"AW, come on here, Jack; isn't there something else we can do besides steal somebody's kid?"

Tom Berkley, as he was known to his comrades, reached over and gave the camp fire a violent poke.

"Well, would you listen to that, Bill!" said Jack Hartman.

The three men were sitting close around the camp fire, which had burnt rather low, and as Tom replenished it with a light dry stick or two it blazed up brightly so that the features of the three men could be plainly seen.

Jack Hartman was a short heavy-set fellow with rather heavy, coarse features and firmly set jaws. He turned so he could study Tom's face closely: "Are you yellow or what ails you?"

"No, I'm not yellow, and you know it," answered Tom, crossing his long legs and lighting his cigar. "I'll help you rob a bank, or a store or most anything else you might mention, but I'm not stuck on this idea of stealing a kid to get a ransom. It's too much like a cat slipping up on a little bird; there's too much difference in their size. When I fight I like to fight somebody near my own size."

"Well, you wouldn't be fighting the kid; you'd just be taking him away from somebody just as you would take somebody's money." It was Bill Martin that spoke this time. He was a man of medium build, light complexion, and usually quiet in his manner. "You see the fight would really be with the kid's father," he continued.

"Aw, yes; I know all that," said Tom, "but what's the use of scaring a little kid to death. I sort of like kids in their happy, free life, and it's a cinch you couldn't help scaring him most to death if you don't really hurt him."

There was silence for a few minutes around the fire, and as light played across Tom's face one could have seen it was of a little finer type than the others, with even features and a clear well-shaped forehead.

He seemed not to notice the other two men for a time, but with a dreamy look he was gazing into the flickering fire. He had been a "kid" once himself, and remembered well the home he had left at the age of fifteen all because of a bit of temper when his father demanded obedience. He had not really meant never to go back, when he left so impulsively, yet, he had a stubborn pride and so had gone on and on, sometimes working honestly, sometimes stealing and somehow always avoiding the law. He had started to go back once, but learned that his mother had died, so felt that he did not care even to see the old home, and had wandered on into other States.

"Ye gods!" said Jack, "from the way you brandish a gun and make a get-away, one would never imagine that you had a soft spot."

"Gosh, no!" said Bill. "We surely would have been caught in that last haul had it not been for your quick moves."

"That was some haul, too," spoke up Jack; "we got this old car and some supplies, but they're not going to last forever. We got to lay off on stores and banks a while, for they're on our trail for that. Now listen here: Richard B. Stoddard, the banker in Edington, sixty miles from here, has an eight-year-old boy that I figure we can kidnap on his way from school and carry him off to our hangout in the Green mountain foothills."

During this speech Tom had got up and was striding back and forth by the fire; suddenly boring his heel into the dirt, as he turned, he said, "Oh! hang it all, go ahead if you want to—I'll drive the car, but one of you fellows will have to grab the kid. Some day," he continued, kicking a tin can, "I am going to stop this whole cursed business."

Four days later, Tom was awakened by the morning sun shining across his face through a crack in the wall of the old cabin. He raised himself on his elbow so he could see better the face of the sleeping child lying not far from him. The little face was still swollen from the crying of the night before, and still clutched in his hand was the bag of marbles Tom had given him if he would stop crying.

For two days after the night around the campfire, Bill Martin had watched the movements of the little Stoddard boy, and the plans were laid to get him. The plans had been successful and they had reached the cabin with their youthful captive late the night before.

Tom had driven the car, as he had declared he would, and so had not seen the child closely.

Now, as he looked at the little face, a sudden chill ran through him; the expression was familiar! Where, where, had he seen that same expression before?

A few seconds later Jack sat up. He looked at the little figure beside him, but he never said a word. He shook Bill and motioned for him and Tom to come outside. Tom was the last to leave the cabin. He stared at the little sleeping form; it haunted him! He had seen that face before. He went outside and shut the door noiselessly.

He walked up to where the other two men were standing. It was Jack who spoke first: "Well, fellows," he started, "two of us have got to go to town and get a paper to see if the ransom has been refused or not. I'm going, so which one of you wants to go with me?"

Bill smiled and said dryly, "I guess it had better be me 'cause Tom is so soft-hearted he would make a good nurse for the kid."

Tom smiled good naturedly and said, "Yes, I would like to stay with him if you don't mind."

"All right, Tom," laughed Jack, "you get the job."

A half hour later Jack and Bill got into the car and drove away saying they would not be back until late that night.

Tom and the little fellow had been playing marbles for an hour, when Tom said, "Say, sonny, you haven't told me your name yet; what is your name?"

"They call me 'Dick' mostly," said the little boy, "but my real name is Richard Beckman Stoddard."

At the name "Beckman," Tom turned ghastly white, for his real name was Thomas Beckman.

"What's the matter, Mister," said little Dick, "are you sick?"

"No—no," said Tom, pulling himself together, "where did you get the Beckman? Is that the B. in your father's name?"

"Oh, no," said Dick, "that was my mother's name—her name was Grace Beckman before she married my daddy."

Like a flash Tom knew why the little face had haunted him,—it was the expression of his own little sister just three years old when he left home.

For some time, Tom, carefully controlling his feelings, questioned the lad about his mother's people—her father, the younger brother, where they lived, and so on, until he knew without doubt that he had helped in the kidnaping of his own little nephew.

Hours later, when the two other men returned to the cabin and told of the refusal of the large ransom, Tom told them of his discovery. He also explained his plan to return the child to its mother immediately.

He persuaded the men to drop it all and make their get-away.

"And, remember," he said, when telling them good-bye, "Tom Berkley is no more, but from now on Tom Beckman goes straight."

The Romantic Age, Senior Class Play

CAST

Mrs. Knowle	Edith Westling
Melisande (her daughter)	Edna Hansen
Jane Bagot (her niece)	Helen Smith
Alice	Louise Wall
Mr. Knowle	Fred Lindholm
Bobby	Otto Johnson
Gervase Mallory	Jesse Jensen

JANE in love with Bobby—Bobby in love with Melisande—Melisande in love with her dream knight—what a situation!

But the situation was very well handled in "The Romantic Age"—a three-act comedy presented by the Senior Class, May the 8th and 9th.

The scene of the play was laid in England and the tone of the play was decidedly English. The entire production created laugh after laugh as the audience watched the principals in the little comedy endeavor to straighten out their "affairs de amour." Of course in the end "they lived happily ever after" and as Mr. Knowle would say, "it must be the port."

Mrs. A. C. Gaul, who had charge of the play, deserves a great deal of credit for her untiring efforts to make it a success.

CAST OF "THE ROMANTIC AGE"

The Championship Trio

ANNA STRONG OTTO JOHNSON KATIE MAUDEN

HERE we have the championship interscholastic debate team of 1925. Whether or not they were presented the "silver" because "our opponents are speaking theoretically, whereas we are speaking facts," we know that they were the better team. We are "mighty" proud of them for throwing aside the "jinx" that has haunted the debaters of Lincoln High for the past two years.

To the members of the class teams and their coaches, also to the students who tried out for the school and class teams should go a fair measure of credit for providing the necessary competition for this championship team.

To the team:—to you, Katie Mauden and Anna Strong, for delivering those constructive speeches which your adversaries could not successfully refute; to you, Otto Johnson, for tearing asunder the issues advanced by the Affirmative; and to you, Mr. Rogers, for the work you have done in developing this forensic team — Lincoln High can truthfully say, "WELL DONE."

The Lincoln News

FIRST SEMESTER STAFF

AT the beginning of the semester, Rex Kelley took the position of Editor-in-Chief; Fern Sizer, Managing Editor; Otto Johnson, News Editor.

The same plan of make-up and general management was carried out with the exception of a new plan of subscription, giving those roll rooms with 100 per cent. subscriptions the paper at 25 cents a semester.

The other members of the staff were: Sports, Fred LePenske; Assistant Sports, Eddie Fisher; Girls' Sports, Doris Prater; Personals, Edna Wise; Exchanges, Dorothy Evers; Columnist, Wilbur Granburg; Jokes, Marge Hayes; Clubs, Katherine Danard; Music, Wilma Zimmerman; Cartoonist, Mertel Jensen; Feature Writer, Alice Linman; Faculty Reporter, Seabon Smith; Files Custodian, Mable Hartman; Assignments, Jerry Hagen; Proof Readers, Andrey-Dean Albert, Guenevere Freeman; Assembly Reporter, Clarence Anderson; Business Manager, Jesse Jensen; Assistant Business Manager, Stanley Malesky; Circulation Manager, Val Hartman; Ad. Manager, Douglas Tilton; Assistant Ad. Manager, Routt Reintjes; Editorial Advisor, J. L. Asbury.

Clarence rose from the position of Assembly Reporter at the beginning of the semester, to Associate Editor at the end of the semester.

SECOND SEMESTER STAFF

With the installation of four new Commissioners, Clarence Anderson was elected Commissioner of Publicity, or Editor of the News, for the second semester staff. His ability was demonstrated by his rise on the fall staff from Assembly Reporter to Associate Editor.

The positions of Associate Editors were held by Mildred Butler and Rolland Morrison; Eva Keuss, Copy Editor; Sports, Ralph Griswold; Assistant Sports, Palmer Scott and Aurice Thompson; Girls' Sports, Ruth Pohlman; Exchanges, Lulu Hartew; Clubs, Helen Smith; Music, Avon Gloyde; Columnist, George Prater; Assignments, Leonard Farstvedt; Special Reporters, Aurice Thompson and Jimmie Wilson; Circulation Managers, Fern Sizer and Marjorie Hayes; Business Manager, Gerald Johnson; Ad. Manager, Routt Reintjes; Collection Manager, Wilfred Gross; Faculty Advisor, J. L. Asbury.

Music

THE music department deserves a great deal of credit for the work it has done in the past year. Appreciation of good music is one of the important factors that has been deeply impressed upon the students of music.

The opera, "The China Shop," presented April 2, 3, 4, was considered a very decided success. In the last three years the Concert-Drama has taken the place of the opera, but through the co-operation of Mr. Nason and the students as well as of members of the faculty, "The China Shop" was so successfully presented that it is very probable that the opera will resume the place it has held in previous years as a school activity.

LINCOLN HIGH GLEE CLUB

The China Shop

"The China Shop" was composed by Arthur A. Penn, and directed by David P. Nason, instructor of music.

The cast included:

Lotus Blossom	Ellen Olson
Ting-a-Ling	Mildred Gross
Ping Ping	Dorothy Evers
Ding Dong	Guinevere Freeman
Hoy-Tee-Toy	Joan Cobbett
Sing Fong	Frank Wilson
Fat Sing	James Robinson
Wun Tun	Earl Percival
Mush Lush	Arnold Huff
Chunk	Worthy Evans
Tannyu	Loren Hollenbeck
Mr. Juscot Karfair	Wallace Slenes

The prologue was sung by Seabon Smith and Wallace Hamilton. A chorus of seventy boy and girls completed the cast.

Glee Club

THE glee club is one of the biggest assets of the music department. It is composed of eighty-five members and has done some fine work this year.

The casts and the chorus for the opera were chosen from this group.

Sometime in May, Mr. Nason plans to have the glee club, assisted by the full orchestra present a well known cantata.

This organization has been more successful in its results than any glee club has been for the past three years.

JUNIOR ORCHESTRA

IT IS doubtful if many students appreciate the earnest work and study the members of the junior orchestra have done this year. They practised almost every noon and did splendidly in their work. It is from this group of sixty-four students, that the coming senior orchestras will be picked, and if they continue to study and progress as they have in the last year, Lincoln will certainly continue to be proud of her orchestras.

THE LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL BAND

The Lincoln Band

YEA, verily, and it came to pass in the declining days of the class of '18, there dwelt at Lincoln half a score of youths of exceeding musical ability, and they formed for themselves a society, which ye know as the Band and it flourisheth even unto this day.

And the chronicles saith that their first days were dark and dreary, even of exceeding difficulty. But they persevered in the ways of music, and in their hour of hardship there came unto them Mr. Nason, who sheweth them much that was wonderful in the way of the Muse.

And there appeared yet another, an able man, of exceeding popularity withal, and the multitude proclaimed that he was Wright. And he laboured to great length among them, uplifting those who were weak and fortifying those who were strong. And they prospered mightily, so that today ye hear them in our auditorium, and the sound of the flute is like the music of the wind, and the kettle-drums roar like a water-fall.

And it shall come to pass in the days of the successors of the class of '25 that days of good cheer shall descend upon the band. Yea, they shall be acclaimed throughout the land, and all people shall sing their praises. Verily, the name of John Philip Sousa shall be forgotten in the clash of their cymbals.

And they shall wax greater and greater, till their fame shall be known unto the ends of the earth. And so shall fortune be kind unto them, till at last the end cometh, the manner of which no man knoweth, not even I, who am of exceeding wisdom (else, why should I be asked to write this confounded article?)

And may a thousand blessings rest upon the Band forevermore, for the many times they have lulled me to sweet slumber in assembly.

AL COREY, 1926.

THE ORCHESTRA

Quartette

THE quartette, composed of four senior boys, was not formed until March, but it has received a great deal of recognition for the programs rendered since then.

Nelda Six has been the accompanist since it was formed.

The following boys made up the quartette for the semester:

Seabon Smith _____ first tenor Webb Colvin ___ baritone
Fritchof Bernstein_second tenor Earl Percival _____ bass

The Orchestra

THE senior orchestra composed of sixty members, is believed by Mr. Nason to be the best that Lincoln has ever had. It is made up of violins, violas, cello, bass, flute, clarinets, saxaphones, French horn, tympani and drums.

Ukulele Club

THE "Uke" club does not need an introduction to the students as it is very popular and well known in the school. It has been in existence since the beginning of our Junior year and was started by Miss Meddins. It has received notable recognition on various occasions. The members, under Ruth Liggett's leadership, have played before many outside audiences, entertaining them with southern melodies, popular songs, classical numbers, duets, solos, quartettes, skits and dances.

The 1925 enrollment of the club numbered thirty girls. Arneice Moabus is the President and Miss Peters has been the chaperone for the Club on the various trips.

THE LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL HONOR SOCIETY

The Lincoln High School Honor Society

THE Lincoln High School Honor Society is another new organization at Lincoln. It was formed primarily in the interest of education, and upholds a high standard of scholarship, service, leadership and character before the school. Since it offers the highly prized membership as a reward for conscientious work, it has proven a great incentive toward increased study and interest in school life. Almost the entire membership is now engaged in the newly devised and successful system of Student Coaching.

The Constitution of the Society is the result of much work by a committee of the faculty composed of Miss Burgess, chairman; Miss Liddell, Miss Barret, Miss Barlow and Mr. Thorsett. It follows the general plan of the Constitution of the National Torch Honor Society, with which the Lincoln Society intends to become affiliated. As a special feature of the establishment of the Honor Society, an assembly was held at which the Rev. Paul Reagor of the First Christian Church gave an address on the question "What are you worth?"; and Principal R. E. Cook presented the pins to the Honor Students and installed the officers.

Those who have fulfilled the high requirements for entrance which allows them to wear the Society pins are: seniors, Thelma Searle, Audrey-Dean Albert, Wanda Billups, Joan Cobbett, Margaret Granberg, Saich Kondo, Fred Lindholm, Olga Malm, Harold Nutley, Elizabeth Thompson, Doris Prater and Doris Wilson; juniors, Margaret Alleman, Stanley Gregg, John Hansler, Evelyn Huseby, Julia Sather, Justin Martin, Verbena Hatcher, Myrtle Jensen, Lola Plott, Lona Potucek, Minnie Starbich and Ethel Upton; sophomores, Priscilla Doherty, Mina Friedricksen, Lillian Hansen, Donald Hoisington, Helen Johnson, Charlotte Keith, Dorothy McLeod, James Ramsdell, Janice Wilson, Beryle Borders, Pearl Carlson, Amanda Erickson, Hester Teevan, Lloyd Ducommun, Winnifred Currie, Glenda Waters, Hazel Wiecking, Lucille Meyer, Mildred Simpson, Vivian Converse and Raymond Jaureguy.

The officers of the Society are: Lloyd Ducommun, President; Doris Wilson, Vice-President; and Wanda Billups, Secretary-Treasurer. The Faculty is represented on the Executive Committee by Mr. Cook, Miss Burgess, Miss Kelley and Mr. Thorsett.

THE ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY COUNCIL

The Associated Student Body

THE Council of the Associated Student Body began this year with the determination to bring the work and power of the Student Body into full being. Feeling that the old constitution vested them with no complete power, the Council drew up amendments which they felt would reconstruct it into a workable one. This new constitution provides for the election of four commissioners, those of Athletics, Finance, Publicity, and Music and Dramatics. These officers are to care for all student activities which come under their department.

Two special assemblies were held, the first to explain the proposed amendments and the second to present the candidates running for the four Commissionerships.

The voting was done in a regular election, precincts being allotted to the various roll rooms. Ballots were printed and the result tabulated by appointed judges. Competition was keen between the candidates for office and despite the fact that the election was held after school hours, the voting was large.

The council worked hard to make the students feel the responsibility of student government. The success of their work has been notable, the interest in the council being great. The officers have been consistent in their work and have attended the weekly meetings regularly, bringing up many things they felt needed attention.

The Association has had a good beginning this year and the council, realizing that the success of their work would be shown in the years to come, has done all in its power to advance the interests of the students.

The influence of the council has been felt by the students and the good it has done has been well received. The purely nominal organization of last year has now become a strong student government.

THE LINCOLN KNIGHTS

Knights of Lincoln

IN FINISHING another year of service, the Knights have proven themselves one of Lincoln's strongest and hardest-working organizations. On the athletic field, in the Clubs and Honor Society, on the News and Annual, Knights held posts of service. They staged the "Lincoln Fights" tag sale for the benefit of the athletic fund, managed the ticket sale for the First Team Football games, put over the Freshman Mixer, and were actively engaged in the adoption of the revised Student Government plan. They helped in everything from cooperating with the alumni to furnishing ushers for the various school affairs or guards at the games.

The Knights, organized two years ago by G. R. McIntire, have grown from ten members to twenty-seven. They are: Harold McCoun, Sir Knight; Rex Kelley, Grand Knight; Fred LePenske, Knight Chamberlain; Ralph Smythe, Harold Nutley, Gordon Alcorn, Douglas Hendry, Roy Case, Ed Harmon, Arnold Huff, Albert Hunt, Cornelius Holcomb, Guy Graham, Albert Loomis, Fred Lindholm, Wilfred Hoban, Dave Rice, James Mosolf, George Mosolf, James Fitts, Ralph Griswold, Loren Allard, Merle Flippin, Lawrence Armstrong, Richard Johnson, Robert Davies and Clayton Wahlmacher.

Mr. Meddins is treasurer of the Knights, Mr. McIntire and Mr. Wagley are Faculty advisers, and Mr. King and Miss Liddell are committee members who sift out the applicants for knighthood. Mr. Cook is an honorary member of the organization.

THE GIRL SCOUTS

Girl Scouts

THE Girl Scout Troop 16 is an active club at Lincoln. It now has a membership of 35 girls. The Troop is divided into four patrols of which the present leaders are Olga Malm, Esther Sivertson, Inez McCormack and Winnie Howard.

The purpose of the Girl Scouts is to give a chance to develop in all directions, to be good homemakers and citizens, and to love the out-of-doors. Community service has been the main activity this year.

This troop was the first in the city to put a stripe in the shield being made at the Scout Headquarters in Tacoma, for fulfilling certain requirements. One of the Troop's good turns this year was to clear a site for the recreational hall at the new Girl Scout Camp at Horsehead Bay. The Scout program has consisted of many hikes, parties and entertainments, besides the regular Scout work.

The girls are looking forward with eagerness to the Field Meet in which they will compete with Stadium Troops for permanent possession of the trophy which Troop 16 has won for two consecutive years.

The present leader of the Lincoln High School Troop is Miss Hazel Holt, and a Troop Committee consisting of Miss Josie Boardman, Miss Mildred White and Miss Katherine Smith. Other officers are: Winifred Howard, Lieutenant; Genevieve Anderson, Chairman; Etha Murray, Scribe; Ethel Upton, Treasurer; and P. T. A. representative, Olga Malm.

OLGA MALM.

THE SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club

THE first meeting of the Science Club was held on December 15, 1924, under the direction of Miss Kelly, the sponsor. Officers were elected and a committee was appointed to write a constitution.

The object of this club is to encourage interest in Science, and to give the members something of interest aside from regular class work.

To be eligible to membership of this society one must be connected with the Science Department or have previously been connected with it.

Pins were selected by a committee, and are now very much in evidence around the school.

There are now 69 members. The officers are: Gordon Alcorn, president; Angelo Thomas, vice-president; Edna Wise, secretary; and Miss Kelly, faculty advisor. The executive committee, which was elected to prepare the programs for the meetings, is composed of Rolland Morrison, chairman; Ruby Persohn, Guy Graham, Dallas Lewis and Beatrice Hastings.

EDNA WISE.

Cercle Clayton-Paul-Bert

CERCLE CLAYTON-PAUL-BERT, organized and directed by Mrs. Cecile Wilson, has had a very successful year. Three-fourths of all the French students in school are members of the club. The programs presented at the club meetings have been varied and interesting.

This year at Christmas time the club sent about fifty-five francs to the association in charge of the schools in the devastated regions of France. This is an annual gift of the club.

The Constitution has been thoroughly revised and several new important features have been added. A complete reorganization has taken place in the club.

Cercle Clayton-Paul-Bert has the honor of being the only French club in the United States to be affiliated with the Ligue Francaise d'Enseignement.

The officers are: President, Pearl Doremus; Vice-President, (fall semester) Olga Malm, (spring semester) Jeanne Boux; Secretary-Treasurer, Guy Graham; and Program chairman, (fall semester) Leah McLean, (spring semester) Ruth Buchanon.

The Adelante Club

THE Adelante, or Spanish Club, was organized anew at the beginning of the fall semester under the sponsorship of Mrs. Allendes. A constitution was drawn up and approved which provides for one meeting a month, with a good program in Spanish at every meeting. Songs, readings and papers on men of history, plays and games are some features of the program.

The club had a party in the lunch room for its members in May.

The purpose of the Adelante Club is to further interest in the Spanish language, customs and countries. All Spanish pupils are eligible to join.

The officers of the club are: Angelo Thomas, president; Justin Martin, vice-president and chairman of program committee; Kenneth Heymel, treasurer; Rosetta Loga, secretary; Maxine McKettrick, reporter; and Elsie Carlson, sergeant-at-arms.

—ANGELO THOMAS.

THE CLASSICAL CLUB

The Classical Club

THE Classical Club, sponsored by Miss Grace Liddell, who is head of the Language Department of Lincoln High School, has for its purpose the study of the life and customs of the ancient Greeks and Romans and of the relation of Latin and Greek to practical life.

During the year, very interesting programs have been given, planned to fulfill the purpose of the club. The initiation ritual using ancient Roman customs including the toga and yoke also furthers this object.

During the month of February, because of numerous requests, the motion pictures "Julius Caesar" and "Fall of Troy," which were given last year, were repeated.

The Classical Club is also very much interested in Greek, since a number of its members are taking advantage of the only high school Greek class in the state. This class is under the instruction of Miss Liddell.

The officers are: President, Milton Bona; vice-president, Ethel Trotter; secretary, Doris Wilson; treasurer, Ralph Smythe; librarian, Margaret Granberg.

The Lincoln Junto

HARK YE, LINCOLNITES!

ENGLISH has at last come into its own! The Lincoln Junto was organized by Mr. N. J. Hong at the beginning of the the spring semester, for the purpose of stimulating greater interest in English language and literature.

If a good name counts for anything, much may be expected of the Junto, for it is named and largely modeled after Franklin's famous Junto.

Like its famous prototype, the Lincoln Junto will endeavor to develop the love of good books, stimulate interest in writing and debating, encourage self-improvement, and do everything in its power to promote good-fellowship among its members.

Being young, it is hopeful; and being new, it has no past to boast of, but only the present to work in, and the future to look forward to.

There are at present thirty members. The Officers are: President, Glenda Waters; Vice-President, Hazel Wiecking; Secretary-Treasurer, Amanda Erickson; and Publicity Agent, Aubrey Milasich.

THE LINCOLN JUNTO

Takolah Club

THE TAKOLAH CABINET

"As a Girl Reserve, I will try to face life squarely; to find and give the best."

ORGANIZED six years ago, Takolah Club, the Girl Reserve of Lincoln High School, has tried to be of real service to the school, to classmates and to faculty; to help girls have an eager desire for knowledge, and for the worthwhile things in life; to have an earnestness of purpose and a sense of responsibility which not only begins a task but also finishes it; to have high Christian standards and an eagerness for service to others which the Girl Reserve Code of our Takolah Club Symbolizes and towards which every Takolah member is striving. The Takolah cabinet is here shown:

Second row: Miss Ford, Chief Advisor, Mrs. Perry, High School Girl Reserve Secretary; Mildred Butler, Treasurer.

—FLORENCE ANDERSON.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB

Dramatic Club

THE Dramatic Club has enjoyed a very successful season the past year. Eleven plays were presented before the society and several were presented at school programs and outside entertainments. The plays presented were: "The Lady and the Lion," "Lima Beans," "Two Dollars Please," "Coming of Fair Annie," "The Exchange," "The Gate," "When Greek Meets Greek," two casts of "Nevertheless," two casts of "Fourteen."

Pantomime work was taken up this year for the first time. Several pantomimes were staged by the members under the instruction of Mrs. Gaul, faculty supervisor of the club. The pantomimes presented were: "John Gilpin's Ride," "Ballad of the Oysterman," "Shepherd in the Distance," and "An Esquimo Tragedy."

The membership numbers about eighty, the majority being active members. The officers are: Ralph Smythe, President, and Wilma Zimmerman, Secretary and Treasurer, who also acts as Vice-President.

Every year the club grows in membership and enthusiasm. This year exceeded other years in the quality and amount of work done, according to the word of the older members of the Club.

THE RADIO CLUB

The Radio Club

"THE most successful year in history," is the only term which will describe the activities of the Radio Club during the past two semesters. Projects have been accomplished beyond the dreams of the most ardent radio fans, and a good basis for a growing organization is left for future students.

Perhaps the most important undertaking accomplished by the club this year is the formation of an exclusive Radio Club roll-room, with Mr. Hennig, faculty advisor, as roll-teacher. The roll-room was formed with the purpose of affording members a better opportunity to study code and discuss all matters pertaining to radio.

In the matter of actual radio work, members have much to be proud of. For the first time actual transmitting has been done. Tests have been conducted with local stations, with very satisfactory results. The set used is a 10-watt coupled Hartley set, which has been improved by members so that it now has an estimated value of $150. Code only has been transmitted, but the members hope to have the equipment necessary to transmit voice before the end of the present school year. The present operator is Leon Mills. For receiving, the club uses a three-tube modified Reinhartz set, which has sufficient scope to receive anything in the United States.

At the beginning of the school year, George Freeman was the only licensed operator in the organization, and the club undoubtedly owes much of its present success to his efforts in getting the project under way. The members are also deeply thankful to Mr. Hennig and to Mr. Hoats for the advice and assistance they have given the club. Under the direction of these teachers and the officers, the organization has increased its membership to 41, and has established itself as one of the most flourishing and successful clubs in school.

Present officers are: President, Harry Draper; vice-president, Alfred Dyment; secretary-treasurer, Lawrence McCamant.

Yell Leaders

"Bob" "Buco" "Swede"

With "pep" as their watchword these three fellows made a live, snappy trio of yell leaders that led many a Lincoln team to victory.

Otto "Buco" Johnson, Yell King, was a brainy leader who could carry the crowd with him through victory or defeat. He was popular with the whole school, including the fair sex, and altogether one of the best leaders the school has ever had.

Harold "Swede" Johnson, senior assistant yell leader, showed plenty of "pep" and made a live, wide-awake cog in the yell leading machine. A fine fellow, "Sea Gull."

Robert "Bob" Davies, junior assistant yell leader, kept the rooters "pepped up" with his ready smile and wit. A fine yell leader and full of the "Lincoln Fight."

Football

THE Football season of 1925 opened with a bang. To Coach King is due a great deal of credit for the championship brand of playing that was shown by Lincoln.

In the absence of "Skinny" Burt, who did more than his share from the side lines, there were three field captains elected, one for each game; Dave Rice was field captain the first game, Fred Lindholm the second, and "Jimmy" Mosolf the third.

The first game was played in the "Bowl," on a wet, muddy and sloppy field, which made carrying the ball and running an almost impossible feat. Lincoln was on the offensive nearly the whole time, and kept the ball deep in Stadium's territory, but was kept from a touch-down by hard luck and a few inches of yardage. The game ended in a 0 to 0 tie.

The second game at Stadium was played in the worst weather possible. A snow and hail storm nearly concealed the teams at times, while the field was a sea of mud and water. This did not keep Elrod, diminutive halfback star of the game, from piling up yardage from his long end-runs. The game ended in another 0 to 0 tie.

The third and last game was played on a hard, dry field, where the "Lincoln Fight" and supremacy were shown to advantage. But the breaks of the game were against Lincoln, which took the ball time after time to Stadium's goal line, only to be fumbled in the decisive play. "Rick" Johnson's drop-kick from the 30-yard line gave the needed points, but did not show how much Lincoln outclassed Stadium in every branch of the game. The game ended in Lincoln's favor with a score of 3 to 0. Lincoln's total yardage gained from forward passes and line plunges totaled 258 yards to Stadium's 88.

Clarence Rolfson; Captain elect, 2 years. "Shawkey" continued the good work shown by himself last season, and by playing center and tackle this year proved a stumbling block to many a play. He is elected captain of next year's varsity, and we feel sure that he will lead a winning team.

David Rice; 3 years. Dave playing right tackle was a hard man to stop on the offensive, and made it harder for his opponents to get through on the defensive. He was field captain the first game. He will graduate this year.

Fred Lindholm; 2 years. Fred at left tackle was one of the mainstays of the team. He won the ticket to the Washington-California game at Seattle for the one showing the most fight.

James Mosolf; 1 year. "Jimmy" coming up from last year's second team played left end during the first game, but was switched to quarterback for the rest of the games, where he ran the team like a veteran.

Frank Wilson; 1 year. Frank was one of the best passers at Lincoln, and was a fairly good punter. He established himself at right end and proved a constant worry to the opposition.

Richard Johnson; 2 years. "Rick" was the team punter, and brought home "the bacon" with that hard-earned drop-kick from the 30-yard line. "Rick" played fullback the first game, but was changed to left end where he was a "never fail" pass receiver.

Harold Elrod; 2 years. Little "Kike" was our "Red Grange" when it came to open field running. Although weighing only 135 pounds, he overcame this handicap by his fight and speed.

Worthy Evans; 3 years. "Ape," the fighting guard, lived up to his name this season, backed by three years' experience and plenty of weight, along with a world of fight. He was one of the mainstays of the team.

Rex Kelley; 1 year. Rex coming up from last year's intermediates, played quarterback on this year's varsity, piloting the team through the first game, which was one of the hardest of the season.

Albert Hunt; 1 year. "Skinny" turned out for football this year with no experience, but with plenty of determination and fight which made him a place on the team at guard.

Wendell Snow; 1 year. Wendell showed his stuff to good advantage at fullback in the backfield this year, where he was a good line plunger when yardage was needed.

Lloyd Bjelland; 2 years. Lloyd bolstered up the backfield where he used his last year's experience coupled with speed to make yardage when needed. He will be back next year.

Everett Jensen; 1 year. Everett coming up from last year's second team held down the position of center throughout the season, where he proved a sure and consistent passer.

Everett Metzger; 1 year. Everett was a mainstay in the backfield and made a showing at tearing the opposition's line to pieces with his hard line plunges.

Willard Parker; 1 year. "Bill" made a capable quarterback, running the team in great style, but was handicapped by lack of weight. He made up for this by showing lots of fight.

Gene Anderson; 1 year. "Highline" proved to be a valuable man at end, where his ability to snag passes out of the air proved a yardage gainer.

Charles Tura; 1 year. "Chuck" didn't know much about football when the season began, but he learned easily and showed lots of fight, making a place for himself at guard.

Jack Slatter; 1 year. Jack's specialty is line plunging. Backed up by weight and brawn, when he hit a line something had to give. Unfortunately, injuries handicapped him most of the season.

ATHLETIC MANAGER

KEENE STROBEL was elected to hold the first position of this kind ever open at Lincoln. This is a new department created to keep track of all the athletic paraphernalia.

INTERMEDIATE FOOTBALL TEAM

Intermediate Football

INTERMEDIATE or 140 pound football competition between Stadium and Lincoln which was started last year gives the men who are too light for the first team and too heavy for the Midgets, a chance to play football on teams which weigh nearly the same. Backed by Coach McIntire's experience and several good paddles, the team was well trained.

The Lincoln Intermediates won last year's and this year's championship decisively and set the record of never having their goal line crossed for two seasons.

The first game, though hard fought, was all Lincoln's. The back field tore the Tiger line to pieces with a score of 19 to 0.

The second game was a repetition of the first, the Lincoln Intermediates making ten first downs to Stadium's three. "Doug" Hendry was the star of the game by his line plunges, and by carrying the ball 80 yards for a touchdown. The game ended in Lincoln's favor 13 to 0.

In the final game, Lincoln made eight first downs to Stadium's one and was inside the Tiger's ten yard line seven times, only to lose on costly fumbles! The final score was a 0 to 0 tie.

MIDGET FOOTBALL TEAM

SECOND FOOTBALL TEAM

Football Midgets

THE Lincoln Midgets under Coach Guilford "broke even" in their hard-fought series with the Stadium 125-pounders. In the first game the Lincoln Midgets showed the Tigers some real football, taking the game easily with a score of 12 to 0.

The second game was hard fought from start to finish, but the Tigers won the game by the close score of 6 to 0. In the third, final, and decisive clash, Lincoln out-played Stadium, tearing through their line, making eleven first downs to the Tigers' five, but were unable to score, the game ending in a 0 to 0 tie.

Second Team Football

THE Second Team football squad suffered the only football defeat of the season by losing to the Tigers in a hard fought series. Coach Isaacs was taken ill directly after the second game, and the team suffered accordingly.

In the first game the Lincoln Seconds romped over the Tigers with a score of 7 to 0. The Tigers managed by good luck to take the second game by the narrow margin of 7 to 0. Lincoln lost the third game by a score of 14 to 0, the breaks of the game being against Lincoln, which made eleven first downs to the Tigers' one.

Basketball

BASKETBALL had one of the most successful seasons in the history of the school, with three championships tucked away for safe keeping until next year. Coached by Peter L. Jensen, the first team looked like a winner from the start. They not only defeated Stadium, but won the city basketball championship from the Lynx by two straight games.

The first game kept Lincoln going at top speed all the time. Stadium used two complete teams and sent in a fresh squad each quarter, but Lincoln won the game with a score of 16 to 6.

The second game was all Lincoln's, surpassing Stadium in every branch of the game. Captain Griswold starred, accounting for 17 points. The final score, 37 to 7, was in Lincoln's favor.

Up to the half in the third and final game both teams were evenly matched. In the last half Lincoln opened up with a whirlwind attack which soon had the Tigers swamped with a score of 27 to 7.

BASKETBALL

Ralph Griswold. "Cud" played a brand of basketball at forward that is rarely seen in high school. He was always on his toes fighting from start to finish. Besides being captain, "Cud" was high point man in the second game.

Richard Johnson. "Rick," the lanky center, used his height and reach to good advantage, outjumping and carrying the ball over the opposition's head for many a point.

Frank Wilson. Frank played forward like a veteran, never getting rattled nor losing his head. When it came to instant action, Frank could use his hands and feet to advantage.

Aurice Thompson. "Orie," as guard, showed lots of fight and broke up many a dribble slated for a score. He was always on the floor with determination to win the game.

Gene Anderson. "Gene" at forward profited by his two years' experience on the second team, and played a good steady game. He was always in the right spot at the right time.

Fred LePenske. "Fred," playing his first year on the varsity, made a fine showing, and used his speed and floor work to pile up the points for Lincoln.

Andrew Berilla. "Andy" played a fighting game at guard. He broke up many a dangerous play which threatened to score for the opposition, and was always fighting from whistle to whistle.

BASKETBALL MIDGETS

SECOND TEAM BASKETBALL

Midget Basketball

COACH Todd with only one letterman back, but with lots of green material, built up the "Fighting Midgets" who played the curtain raisers for the first team games, and who set a good example for them to follow. They walloped Stadium to the tune of 13 to 3 in the first game.

The second meeting was a fast and furious set-to from start to finish, with Lincoln coming out on the long end of the score 15 to 11.

The third clash was "anybody's game" up to the final whistle; both teams were evenly matched and were fighting for all they were worth. The game ended with a score of 11 to 10 in Lincoln's favor, cinching the Midget championship with three straight games.

Second Team Basketball

FOLLOWING in the steps of the First and Midget Team champions, the Second Team gave Stadium a good trimming in the first game.

The second game was closer, being a fight from start to finish. The score was nearly even up to the first half, after which Lincoln opened up and won the game by a score of 21 to 16.

The final game was lost to the Tigers, although Lincoln ran the score from 1 up to 11 in the last half. The score was 18 to 11 in favor of Stadium.

First Team Wrestling Champions

Wrestling

LINCOLN is the school of wrestling champions, counting the seven out of eleven matches won in the last meet. She has won the championship for ten straight years. There was a change in the weights this year, making eleven instead of ten bouts.

The Novice Meet, which started the wrestling season, went over in great style, bringing out lots of good material. The Roll Room Meet came next, with Auditorium 1 winning the big sheet metal cup. The Championship Meet, in which the school champs were picked, was followed by the Challenge Meet, and the winners sent against Stadium.

A great deal of credit is due Amos Booth, the 165-pound champion of last year's squad, for training the fellows. Booth, although a post-graduate, was over in the gymnasium every night "working out" with the wrestlers.

This year's winning team was composed of:

Bob Hansen—won the 100-pound championship;

Dick Bundy—won the 110-pound championship;

Manabi Yamamoto—won the 115-pound championship;

"Walt" Klasey—won the 120-pound championship;

Al Loomis—lost the 125-pound championship;

Art Poole—won the 130-pound championship;

Ed. Harmon—lost the 135-pound championship;

Kenneth Haywood, "subbing" for Merle Flippin—lost the 140-pound championship;

Lawrence Armstrong—won the 145-pound championship;

"Cud" Griswold—won the 158-pound championship;

Ralph Smythe, greatly outweighed—lost the heavy championship, but gave a good demonstration of the old Lincoln Fight.

Second Team Wrestlers

THE Second Team men, following in the steps of the First Team, continued the Lincoln series of victories by winning from Stadium seven bouts out of twelve.

The Second Team was a new feature at Lincoln this year. It gave those men who trained for months for the varsity and failed, a chance to go against Stadium. The results of the bouts were:

Devoto won in 100 pound weight.
Purchase won in 115 pound weight.
Harmon won in 120 pound weight.
Taschner lost in 125 pound weight.
Clarke won in 130 pound weight.
Pangborn won in 130 pound weight.
Brecht lost in 135 pound weight.
Holcomb lost in 135 pound weight.
Case wrestled five periods to a draw.
Flippen won in 140 pound weight.
Hoban lost in 145 pound weight.
"Rick" Johnson won in 158 pound weight.

Baseball

THE DIAMOND SQUAD

THERE has been a change in coaches this year. Coach McIntire, taking up the good work done by coach King last year when the team won the baseball championship from Stadium, bids fair to produce another winning team.

There are four star baseball lettermen in school this year. With "Cud" Griswold and Jimmy Mosolf as the slab artists, "Rick" Johnson and Douglas Hendry in the field, and with the coach's ability and pep, Lincoln will certainly put a winning team in the field. In addition to this there is any amount of new material available, so that there will be stringent competition on the part of every man who holds down a place on the team.

Tennis

"WE love all," or the otherwise-known game of tennis, has never had much of a showing at Lincoln. Although there are and have been several good players in school, the tennis courts have never been numerous enough, or well enough kept, to produce a winning team on the South Side.

Those of last year's team in school are Clifford Jenne, Earnest Erickson and Cornelius Holcomb. Jimmie Wilson will make a strong bid for the team.

First Team Soccer Men

TRACK LETTERMEN

Soccer

THE Soccer season started at Lincoln with the Freshmen, Sophomores and Seniors winning the inter-class championships, the Juniors losing the only game.

In the first game, both Stadium and Lincoln played a good brand of soccer, but neither team was able to score, although they played two overtime periods. The game ended in a 0 to 0 tie.

The second clash was nearly as close as the first, with Lincoln keeping the ball in Stadium's territory most of the game. In the five minutes overtime, Griswold made a goal which gave Lincoln the game with a score of 1 to 0.

Stadium copped the last game by a score of 2 to 1. The championship trophy still stays at Lincoln, although the series was even, since Stadium would have to win the series to gain the trophy.

Track

THIS looks like a winning year for the Lincoln track squad. For two straight years Lincoln has won the Pennsylvania Relay Trophy, taking four out of five events both years. If looks count for anything, Lincoln should keep up the good work this year.

The season was started with the first cross country race ever held at Lincoln, over a three-mile course. Each class put five men in the field. Detmer Ketler, an unknown Junior trackman, came in first, with the fast time of 16 minutes and 11 seconds; Gene Anderson, Senior, second; and Bill Post, Senior, a close third. The Seniors won the meet, with the Freshmen second; Sophomores third, and Juniors fourth.

There are many lettermen in school to build a team around. They are: Ralph Smythe, star sprinter who was elected Captain of the squad; Guy Graham, Aaron Hayden, Fred LePenske, "Cud" Griswold, "Bob" Davies, Harold Nutley, James Wilson, Redmond Pangborn, Laurence Armstrong, Alfred Loomis, "Rick" Johnson, Jimmy Mosolf and "Ape" Evans.

Swimming

FINNED L CLUB

SWIMMING is organized at school under the "Finned L Club," to which all the best swimmers belong, having to meet certain requirements before being eligible to join.

Lincoln has never excelled in swimming, and has through graduation lost Lawrence Keller, the speed swimmer, and Ross Fowler, the back-stroke artist.

The novice swimming meet brought a lot of new splashers to the surface, and a good team ought to be sent against Stadium.

LINCOLN LETTER LASSIES

LINCOLN LETTER LASSIES, is the name given to those girls in Lincoln High School who have earned "L's" in athletics. Pictured on the opposite page are the girls of the various classes who have won one or more letters. Seniors: Ruth Aus, Mary Baker, Mildred Butler, Nellie Demske, Doris Krell, Olga Malm, Doris Prater, Gladys Spiegelberg and Ruth Pohlman. Juniors: Margaret Alleman, Mable Bennett, Sarah Cook, Edith Neilson and Elizabeth Pugh. Sophomores: Ethel Upton and Marion Krell.

Much interest has been taken in the various sports for girls this year especially among the lower classmen. The Seniors did not respond as well this year to the various activities as they did in their previous years. The class of '25 first came into prominence when they won the base-ball and cricket championships in their Sophomore year. Since then no championships have been taken by them.

This year the Class of '26 has had an extremely good year, by winning two basket-ball championships and also the cricket championship. In the years 1923 and 1924 this class took several second place honors in the various sports.

The Class of '27, known as the Sophomores have not yet made any real distinctions for themselves but they hope to do so before they leave Lincoln High.

Last but not least comes the Class of '28, the Freshmen. This year they took second place in the basket ball series. Much credit is also given them for the great interest they have taken in the different sports, which has been proven by the number that turned out for each event.

The last two events on the school calendar for girls are baseball and swimming. Both are very popular sports among the girls.

Junior Basketball Champions

"LET 'ER TANGLE, LET 'ER MIX
1—9—2—6
JUNIOR CHAMPIONS"

SO yelled the Junior girls after basketball season this year. The title "Champions", was bestowed upon the Juniors' first sextette this season when they made a clean record by not being defeated once. Pictured above are the girls who represented their class. Bottom row, left to right: Mary Churchill, Mary Francis LePenske, Margaret Alleman, captain; Agnes Zehnder, and Gladys Leak. Top row, left to right; Florence Johnson, Mable Ball, Minnie Sterbich, Rhoda Cheney and Evelyn Huseby.

Second Team Winners

WHAT, another championship for the Juniors?

Junior Cricket Champions

ONCE more the Juniors prove victors in inter-class competition. By taking the Cricket Championship they have won every game, so far this year. The girls who were on the Championship team are, as pictured above: bottom row, left to right, Edith Coombs, Margaret Alleman, Gladys Leak (Captain), Sarah Cook, and Elizabeth Pugh; middle row, left to right, Ethel Neilson, Mary Churchill, Mable Bennett, and Elsie Carlson; top row, left to right, Rhoda Cheney, Rosaline Koval, Minnie Strbick, and Evelyn Huseby.

TRUTHFUL CONFESSIONS

I SCARCELY comprehend how to commence such an irrevocably tremendous undertaking as the narration of my multitudinous crimes—worthy, morbid, atrocious or otherwise.

At least, I believe I had inherited the tendency towards crime. One of the first attempts I remember was a hideous and irrefutably abominable sin. At the innocent age of 16, and it here may be entered that although I had indiscriminately disseminated a prevarication secretly in one ear of the opposite sex, I had never whispered in a mouth, I met the inspiration of my life who radioacted on my heart in such a way that what took place was called by Blasco Ibenez Shakespeare "Love at first spectacle." She was a wonderfully, beautifully constructed piece of feminine humanity that vibrated all over like a half dead fish in a more or less hot skillet. As I said, she was the causation of my percolating breast, but as I had one passion greater than my admiration for her, I was overpowered in a tremendous manner, especially when I was confronted by the very opportunity that I had been longing for; unexpectedly and suddenly it turned up irresistably in a thoroughfare; it rendered me helpless to resist, for it came about that my first chief offense, terrible and unforgivable as it was, supervened one beautiful Sunday morning. It semblanced that the entire and universal curse of mankind was superimposed upon me; an oppressive and unshakable sensibility that I was an unmistakable and dastard criminal, imbedded itself in the light black matter of my cerebrum, and laid bare the hideous and unembellished mental activity that if I had had another brain, I would have had one; but that for the fact that Mr. Brown so abhorred the female species of the Darwinish evolution family that he said "Frailty, thy name is womar," and for the fact that very fatal particle of perambulated idiom that signifies to this effect, "When man becomes familiar with his Goddess, she quickly sinks into a woman," I might have permitted the pensamientos of my pate to turn me aside and to have lacerated myself asunder from the poisonous and corrupt perverting influence that had grappled me like a Tom Cameron and allowed me nowhere to turn for a guiding influence but the bitter and acrimonious conscience hidden within myself; so it was, by a very extortive mediator that was marmorial to good, that I outrageously committed such a hideous act, in a vile and horrible manner, as to swipe an all-day sucker from my sweetie.

A serious matter has come to the Editor's attention. It seems that the Freshman Class will soon be a matter of the past. Through falling tears we view this epitaph:

ODE TO A FRESHMAN

Blessings on thee, Freshie dear!
We'll not see you here next year;
With thy green, sweet baby stare,
Freckled nose and ginger hair,
With thy short socks, shorter still,
Dressed, the first day fit to kill.

With the sunshine in thy face
And thy proud and jaunty pace;
From our hearts we feel less joy,
For there'll be no freshie boy.

In Junior High you will abide
With the younger ones beside;
We're sorry to lose you, Freshie man,
But we'll be as happy as ever we can.

To us you'll come but later on
In wiser knowing, thereupon;
Outward sunshine, inward joy
Blessings on thee—Freshie boy!

When One Graduates

Commencement!—The climax of school days and an all-important event in one's life. Many a Rhodes customer started shopping here even as a grade scholar and as many as three generations of a family depend upon this store's services for nearly every requirement. Now this institution has become a vital part of the community and an acknowledged necessity, thanks in a large measure to the patronage of the high school students.

YOU, Incorporated,

First Asset Good Appearance

IN your run for success you want as many odds in your favor as possible.

One mighty important quality is your appearance. Personal appearance, good clothes and clean clothes. That counts in life's every angle — business, home, sports, social affairs.

Make this big asset work for you. Make it help you make your mark.

THE desire for privacy is natural. Private as one's own home is Mellinger's Mortuary, where a private entrance leads from a private driveway to the parlor. Entrance to motor cars at the close of the service, likewise, is private.

This privacy is just an example of the attention made possible through having a funeral home modern in every respect and in keeping with the type of service we give.
